The Ph.D. Thesis of Professor ELORDUI (Hizkuntz heriotza eta aldaketa morfologikoa: Hegomendebaldeko bizkaieraren kasua) (Language death and morphological change: the case of the southwest biscayan dialect) and her research work from 1991 to 2002 was focused on the study of language shift and language change in minority languages. Since 2002 she started teaching on the Faculty of Social Sciences and Communication and working on language revitalization particularly in media. First at all, she worked on the characterization of the language of the media and also on the development of the Standard Basque in media (ELORDUI & Zabala 2003, ELORDUI & Zabala 2006, Zabala & ELORDUI 2008, among others) and specialized discourse in comparison (ELORDUI & Zabala 2006, Lersundi & Zabala & Elordui 2008, among others). In the last three years she has been the principal researcher of the project EBALUA where together with other researches of the Department of Basque Language and Communication of the University of the Basque Country designed an experimental protocol for assessment of the implementation and development of standard Basque in media. The theoretical and methodological basis of that design has been discussed in several conferences and published in journals and monographs related with the topic (ELORDUI & Zabala 2009; Elordui, Zabala, Lersundi, San Martin 2010, San Martin, Zabala, 2009 Ezeiza). Also she have been working in the creation of corpus for the analysis of media texts (Ezeiza, J., X. Payá, A. ELORDUI, I. Epelde 2011; Ezeiza & ELORDUI 2011) and the study of sociolinguistic criteria for desing of a knowledge bank of Basque language usages in the network. Her research interests in the last years are focused in sociolinguistics and media discourse studies. She has published on linguistic variability and stylization in media discourse on Basque (Elordui 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018 a, b 2019). Her current research interests include multilingual practices in social media, stylization in audio-visual fictional discourse and sociolinguistic change and mediation. Nowadays she is a member of the NOR Research Group (IT881-16)
