Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 3500 characters, including spaces)

In February 2009, I obtained a position as Adjunct Professor at the University of the Basque Country. In February 2014, I have been hired as Interim Labor Professor and since 2020 I am Senior Researcher/Lecturer (Aggregate Professor). Teaching taught in the Biology, Environmental Sciences and Pharmacy degrees, as well as Master's Programs in Research. My research work is fundamentally associated with the Forest dynamic and dendrochronology Line, included in FisioclimaCO2 Reseach Group (founded by Basque Government, ref.: IT1022-16). Although, in my career as an ecological scientist, I have worked on several research topics such as the dynamics and restoration of natural vegetation in Atlantic forest habitats, the herbivore diet through microhistological methods (eg boar, ptarmigan) and the threatened flora.

In this last period (since 2010), my research effort has been aimed at deepening and improving knowledge about the factors that limit the growth of tree species in the Iberian Peninsula. Also the effect of climate on growth, which will allow an understanding the responses of forest species and ecosystems to future changes in climate. Throughout these years I have maintained collaborations with relevant scientists such as José Miguel Olano (Universidad de Valladolid), Adrián Escudero (Área de Biodiversidad y Conservación, Universidad Rey Juan Carlos) and Jesús Julio Camarero (Instituto de Ecología de los Pirineos (CSIC)) In recent years, I keep an intense and continuous collaboration with Doctor Asier Herrero. This collaboration has allowed studying how climate and competition modulate the growth of various woody species (yew, black locust, pedunculated oak...). Since 2018 I have been part of the group that studies the recovery of vegetation after the tornado that occurred in the Legaire beech forest (2018/07/04).
