CV Summary

My research specializes in intergroup relations, focusing on collective action, diversity, acculturation, collective narratives, conflict, social emotions, and cohesion through experimental and survey methods, providing evidence-based insights into intergroup dynamics across diverse domains.

Scientific Achievements

My research has resulted in high-impact contributions, with a progressive increase of the profile of my publications. I have published in top-level journals in my area in Europe (e.g., Group Processes & Intergroup Relations, European Journal of Social Psychology) and globally (Emotion, Political Psychology, Cultural Diversity and Ethnic Minority Psychology). My productivity is reflected in almost 60 publications from the Web of Science Core Collection and 11 contributions to book chapters, with high citation impact (2157 citations on Google Scholar). My research has been recognized with an Extraordinary Dissertation Award from the University of the Basque Country and a Young Researchers Award from the Spanish Scientific Society of Social Psychology.

Internationalization and Mobility

My scientific trajectory covers in total 16 years at the Dept. of Interdisciplinary Social Science at Utrecht University (the Netherlands), the Dept. of Political and Social Sciences at Pompeu Fabra University, and the Dept. of Social Psychology at the University of the Basque Country, complemented with mobility periods at renowned institutions such as New School of Social Research (the US) or University of Kent (the UK). These experiences have fostered collaborations with distinguished researchers in emotions (e.g., J. Zickfeld, Denmark), acculturation and intergroup relations (M. Verkuyten, B. Martinovic, the Netherlands), and collective memory (J. Vollhardt, the US; M. Rupar, Czech Republic). I participated in the EU-funded IS1205 COST Action on collective memories (e.g., L. Licata, O. Klein, Belgium), and international large-scale projects such as World History Survey and Digital Influence Survey (J. Liu, New Zealand). In the framework of my EU-funded MSCA Fellowship, I have started creating an international, interdisciplinary research consortium in the field of study of non-verbal expression of emotions in intergroup relations (tearaid.edu). I have been a collaborator in an ERC-funded project OWNERS, implemented at Utrecht University.

Leadership and Funding

In 2020-2021, I led a Marie Skłodowska Curie Individual Fellowship at Utrecht University (European Commission, €175,572.48; a proposal ranked among top 3.7% in its panel). Additional funding includes grants from “la Caixa” Foundation (€17,000), Utrecht University (€9,996), and European Association for Social Psychology (€24,000) for organizing three scientific events: “The Role of Emotions in Interethnic Relations, Utrecht”; “Understanding and Transforming Challenging Relationships: Setting a Research Agenda for a 21st Century Social Psychology,” San Sebastián; and “Emotional Crying in Social Context,” Lodz. As Ramón y Cajal and Ikerbasque Research Fellow, I secured €92,000 in research funds. Recently, I obtained competitive funding from the Spanish Ministry of Science, Innovation and Universities for the project titled “HERMES: Healing Effects of Role Models for Empowerment and Solidarity” (PID2023-151315OA-I00, 166,625€).

Social Impact and Citizen Science

Along my career, I have prioritized connecting academia and civil society. In the framework of the SOS Racismo Gipuzkoa university section at UPV/EHU, I coordinated the European Commission-funded project “Voice 4 Migrants” (€137,500) and two local research projects (“Refugees: Reflection and Perception” and “The situation of foreign domestic workers in Gipuzkoa”) financed by Gipuzkoa Provincial Council and Basque Government (€14,380), as well as assessed the impact of social mentoring and democratic culture oriented interventions (€5,882 + €14,999). I am currently engaged in research projects and contracts in synergy with SOS Racismo focused on rights advocacy and the political empowerment of migrant women workers, including “Dignified Work, Dignified Care” (Kutxa Fundazioa, €72,400) and “Zabaltzen: Political Empowerment Academy” (Basque Agency for Cooperation, €11,570.24). In the framework of MSCA fellowship and the current HERMES project, I collaborate with non-governmental organizations such as Refugee Today, Moviltik or Good People.

Mentoring and Community Service

I co-supervised five doctoral dissertations and currently supervise five ongoing ones (grants: FPI, Basque Government), as well as one post doc (PIC). I served as a mentor in two summer schools (Utrecht Univ. on Migration, Integration, and Ethnic Relations; Spanish Society of Social Psychology.) I also supervised numerous master’s theses, with several awarded honors, and hosted three international early-career researchers, resulting in successful publications. I am member of the Governing Council of International Society of Political Psychology. I am editor-in-chief at International Journal of Social Psychology (after 5 years as associate editor) and editorial board member for International Journal of Intercultural Relations. I am also a member of the advisory board at the Ibero-American Journal of Psychology and Public Policy (IJP&PP). I acted as chair at several scientific committees at national and international conferences or meetings (EASP, SCEPS), peer reviewed more than 70 papers (Clarivate), as well as assessed projects for several research agencies or universities in Austria (University of Vienna), Argentina (CONICET), and Chile (CONICYT).

Journal Publications

Top Ten Publication Highlights

(* corresponding author; citation score: Google Scholar)

1. Bobowik*, M., Zickfeld, J. H., Martinović, B., & Verkuyten, M. (2024). The effects of refugees’ emotional tears on felt emotions and helping behaviors. International Journal of Intercultural Relations, 103, 102091. <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.ijintrel.2024.102091>. Impact: IF 2.4 (2023), Q1 54/267 (Interdisc. Social Sciences). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Data analysis; Writing the draft; Project Management and Funding Acquisition. Significance: Three experiments with nation-wide panel data ( $N = 2647$ ) and a quasi-experimental citizen science study ( $N = 191$ ) in collaboration with Refugee Today, showed that tearful depictions of refugees mobilize real support for refugee-focused initiatives, driven by perceived sadness and compassion.
2. Alonso-Arbiol, I., Bobowik*, M., Pascual, A., Conejero, S., & Padoan, S. (2024). Moral exemplars promote positive attitudes, beliefs, intentions, and behaviors toward outgroups during the COVID-19 pandemic: The explanatory role of self-transcendent emotions. Group Processes & Intergroup Relations, 27(1), 118–141. <https://doi.org/10.1177/13684302231165730>. Impact: 3 citations, IF 4.00 (2023), Q1 10/76 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Data analysis; Writing the draft; Project Management and Funding Acquisition. Significance: An online experiment with panel data ( $N = 651$ ) showed that exposure to stories of migrant essential workers improved outgroup attitudes, beliefs, and intergroup helping, via self-transcendent emotions.

3. Bobowik, M., Zumeta, L. N., Pizarro, J. J., Basabe, N., & Moreno, G. (2024). The “hidden side” of intergroup contact: The role of perceived social structure in motivating support for social change among the disadvantaged and the advantaged. Group Processes & Intergroup Relations, 27(3), 497–520. <https://doi.org/10.1177/13684302231175864>. Impact: IF 4.00 (2023), Q1 10/76 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization, Methodology, Fieldwork, Writing the draft, Project management. Significance: This work, using a sample of 2,377 immigrants and host culture members, shows that intergroup contact reduces support for social change among the disadvantaged due to perceived stability and permeability, but increases them among the advantaged via perceived illegitimacy of inequalities.
4. Guerendiain-Gabás, I., Gil de Montes, L., Bobowik, M., & Arnoso-Martínez, M. (2024). Support for unconditional basic income in Spain: A materialist or post-materialist issue? Political Psychology, n/a(n/a). <https://doi.org/10.1111/pops.12934>. Impact: 1 citation, IF 4.60, Q1 6/76 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Writing parts of the draft; Mentoring PhD candidate I. Guerendiain-Gabás, Project Management and Funding Acquisition (data from la “Caixa”-funded project). Significance: Using two representative Spanish surveys (2017,  $N = 1958$ ; 2021,  $N = 2004$ ), this research shows that support for UBI is less ideologically driven among lower-status citizens, while higher-status citizens' attitudes depend on egalitarian (leftist) or meritocratic (rightist) values.
5. Bobowik*, M., Doroszuk, M., Slawuta, P., & Basabe, N. (2023). When they cry: Tears facilitate responses toward members of socially disadvantaged groups. Emotion, 23(2), 521–537. <https://doi.org/10.1037/emo0001085>. Impact: 13 citations, IF 3.40, Q1 12/99 (Exp Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Data analysis; Writing the draft. Significance: Three novel experiments ( $N = 546$ ) showed that host culture members, in response to images of tearful immigrants, perceive them as warmer, experience greater compassion, and are more willing to provide both emotional and instrumental support.
6. Zumeta, L. N., Bobowik, M., Basabe, N., & Włodarczyk, A. (2022). Participation in multicultural awareness-raising community actions: Positive effects on well-being and group efficacy. Cultural Diversity and Ethnic Minority Psychology, 28(3), 413–426. <https://doi.org/10.1037/cdp0000426>. Impact: 12 citations, IF 3.30, D1 1/20 (Ethnic Studies). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Writing parts of the draft; Mentoring PhD candidate L. Zumeta. Significance: Across three field studies in collaboration with SOS Racismo Gipuzkoa, with immigrants and host culture members ( $N = 403$ ), participation in intercultural actions boosted well-being and group efficacy, partly through self-transcendent emotions and shared flow.
7. Bobowik*, M., Benet-Martínez, V., & Repke, L. (2022). “United in diversity”: The interplay of social network characteristics and personality in predicting outgroup attitudes. Group Processes & Intergroup Relations, 25(5), 1175–1201. <https://doi.org/10.1177/13684302211002918>. Impact: 16 citations, IF 4.40, Q2 17/63 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization, Data analysis, Writing the draft. Significance: This study reveals that immigrants' personal networks predict their outgroup attitudes, highlighting the roles of network composition, structure, and personality (openness to experience).
8. Araújo, R. C. R., Bobowik*, M., Vilar, R., Liu, J. H., Gouveia, V. V., de Zuñiga, H. G., Kus, L., Lebedeva, N., & Poluektova, O. (2020). Human values and ideological beliefs as predictors of attitudes toward immigrants across 20 countries: The country-level moderating role of threat. European Journal of Social Psychology, 50, 534–546. <https://doi.org/10.1002/ejsp.2635>. Impact: 44 citations, IF 3.38, Q2 22/65 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Writing parts of the draft; Mentoring PhD candidate R. Araújo. Significance: Multilevel Bayesian analyses using representative samples from 20 countries ( $N = 21,362$ ) revealed that ideology and existence values amplify anti-immigrant attitudes in contexts of high perceived threat.
9. Bobowik*, M., Martinovic, B., Basabe, N., Barsties, L., & Wachter, G. (2017). “Healthy” Identities? Revisiting Rejection-Identification and Rejection-Disidentification Models among Voluntary and Forced Immigrants. European Journal of Social Psychology, 47(7), 818–831. <http://dx.doi.org/10.1002/ejsp.2306>. Impact: 113 citations, IF 2.05, Q2 23/64 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Methodology; Fieldwork; Data curation; Writing the draft. Significance: This research tested the roles of national and ethnic identification in the relationship between perceived discrimination and well-being with representative samples of refugees and voluntary migrants ( $N = 3,680$ ). Using multi-faceted well-being measures and multi-group SEM, it provides evidence that the strength of rejection-identification and deidentification processes might be context dependent.

10. Bobowik*, M., Páez, D., Arnoso, M., Cárdenas, M., Rimé, B., Zubieta, E., & Muratori, M. (2017). Institutional apologies and socio-emotional climate in the South American context. British Journal of Social Psychology, 56, 578–598. <https://doi.org/10.1111/bjso.12200> Impact: 31 citations, IF 1.78, Q2 29/64 (Soc Psych). Role: Conceptualization; Data analysis; Writing the original draft. Significance: This study examined perceptions of political apologies and socio-emotional climate among victims and non-victims in Argentina, Chile, and Paraguay ( $N = 2,968$ ), revealing how social context shapes apology evaluations. Victims' positive evaluations were linked to a supportive socio-emotional climate in Argentina and Paraguay, while the opposite was found in Chile.
